REMARKABLE POINTS ON THE MARKET

The market went upstream and gained emotionally at the end of the week, prolonging the gaining chain to 6 sessions. Different from yesterday, the market opened with a big dropping gap and stayed in red in most trading time with pressure covering widely. The drop on Wall Street last night with inflation being higher than expected saw impact on domestic investors' confident. Meanwhile, oil and industrial park were some rare groups that helped limiting the gain in the morning. Remarkably point came at the end as the cash flow was suddenly strong, with real estate being motivation for pulling the index. Other groups also followed. However, the liquidity was still low, most these groups differentiated. Foreign investors stayed out of the recovering trend as they saw another strong net selling.

TECHNICAL POINT OF VIEW

In technical term, VN-Index saw the 6th gain in a row. The volume stayed below 10 and 20-session average, showing cautious cash flow. Not just that, the index stayed above MA5 that increased, and RSI stayed on uptrend to above 45 and MACD increased to Signal, showing that gaining trend is still there and the index might move to challenge resistant level of 1,159 points (MA20). However, the index hasn't escaped the pressure from MA20 that dropped, and +DI was still below -DI, showing that short-term dropping trend hasn't ended, and current recovery might only be technical. Therefore, investors should cautiously consider on high-price purchase when the index moves close to MA20. For HNX, HNX-Index saw similar situation. It saw 6 gains in a row and stayed above MA20, and MACD cut up to Signal, supporting buying sign, showing that there is still chance of gaining, with close resistant level around 243 points (MA50). In general, the market is still on technical recovery after the gain on October 13. Therefore, investors should consider surfing at low weight, having priority on good-fundamental codes with positive Q3 business growth that can attract strong cash flow.
