REMARKABLE POINTS ON THE MARKET

The market gained further on Monday. The positive gain on Wall Street on Friday motivated VN-Index as it opened with impressive gaining gap after ATO. However, investors were still cautious, as the liquidity didn't get much better and main indexes struggled within a small range around the level from the beginning. The cash flow focused mainly on large-cap codes under the lead of banking, steel, and food and beverage. In the last few minutes, real estate and securities were also positive so the indexes gained by a few more points at the end. on the other side, the pressure came from some individual codes like MWG, HDB, VRE, or OCB. Remarkably, these were all bought strongly by ETFs and gained positive in the review at the end of last week.

TECHNICAL POINT OF VIEW

In technical term, VN-Index saw the 4th gain in a row. The volume dropped to below 10 and 20-session average, showing cautious cash flow. Not just that, the index still saw pressure from MA20 that dropped and +DI was below -DI, showing that correcting pressure is still there, and the main trend in short-term is still dropping and current gain might only be technical. However, the index stayed above MA5, and MACD cut up to Signal, showing new buying sign and RSI increased to 46, showing better recovering trend. Therefore, the technical recovery might continue, with resistant target around 1,095-1,100 points (MA20). For HNX, HNX-Index saw similar situation. It also gained but couldn't surpass the pressure from MA20, and +DI was below -DI, showing that the main trend is still dropping and this gain might only be technical recovery with close resistant around 224 points (MA20). In general, the market is still on technical recovery after the gain on November 6. Therefore, investors should only keep new orders at T+ surfing state to be flexible when facing unexpected risks from general market.
