REMARKABLE POINTS ON THE MARKET

The market dropped again strongly with selling pressure focusing mainly in second half of the afternoon. The situation in the morning was consistent with previous sessions as the indexes moved sideways with low liquidity. However, after lunch break, the market suddenly turned negative as many investors dumped strongly, including strong selling from foreign investors. This action pushed the liquidity up strongly in the afternoon, and main indexes closed at near day-lowest level. Remarkably, droppers took complete control, but there was no midcap and penny codes being on the floor. This showed that the market still saw bottom-catching demand at low level.

TECHNICAL POINT OF VIEW

In technical term, VN-Index dropped again. The volume increased to above 20-session average, showing stronger selling pressure. Meanwhile, MA5, 20, and 50 tended to meet around MA200, showing that the main trend might still be sideways within the range from 1,073-1,132 points. At the same time, the index created a thick long dropping candle when closing in on upper line of the resistant level, and -DI tended to widen the gap above +DI, showing that correcting pressure returned with risk of dropping to support level below 1,073 points. For HNX, HNX-Index saw similar situation. The index dropped and broke MA20, with a thick dropping candle and higher volume, showing that correcting pressure is getting stronger and the index might drop to support level of 220 points (closest bottom). In general, the market saw risk of correcting to lower line of Sideway channel after the drop of December 13. Therefore, investors should keep the weight at below average to create positive position when the market corrects to strong support level.
